

Rosenbaum Opening Attracts Thousands

The opening of Rosenbaum Brothers new store in North Pittsburg street last night attracted several thousand people. The hours were from 7 to 10 o'clock and during that time the three floors were crowded with men, women and children, who were eager to inspect the new store and witness the grand display of merchandise on exhibition. Adding to the beauty of the interior of the store were professions of floral emblems sent by friends of the firm. Included was an immense floral horseshoe, a gift from the employees of Rosenbaum Brothers in 'Uniontown'. Baskets of gladioli, roses, asters and other cut flowers together with tall ferns were placed in every available space. Handsome silks and trimmings adorned the beautiful mahogany counters, while the many display cases were devoted to a showing of toilet articles, the newest novelties in neckwear, leather goods and other accessories so important to ladies' wardrobes. The ladies' ready-to-wear department and millinery parlor on the second floor attracted considerable attention. As did the carpet and drapery room on the third floor.

The attractive display windows gave only a glimpse of the beauty of the interior of the store. The building has been completely remodeled from the basement to the third floor and in each department is found merchandise of the highest quality. Many patrons of the Uniontown store moved here to attend the opening. A large orchestra played during the evening.

State Convention Held Here

The 1922 state convention of the Ladies' Society of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers will be held in the spring at Hazelwood, the place having been selected at the annual convention held yesterday in the Elks Home in East-Crawford avenue. Members of Coke Queen Lodge No. 135 of this city were hosts and all the sessions were of unusual interest. The members of the local lodge have been preparing for the convention for some time past and met the slightest detail was overlooked in arranging for the entertainment of the visiting delegates. At 8:30 o'clock last evening an elaborate dinner, the menu consisting of turkey, roast beef and other good things, was served in the dining room of Trinity Lutheran Church.

The afternoon session convened at 1 o'clock and was featured by an excellent drill by the members of Coke Queen Lodge. ## What is Castoria

CASTORIA is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrup. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulence, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Comfort—The Mother's Friend. It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots that a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 20 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Labor Chiefs

Would Amend Constitution

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 8.—Asserting that President Harding "instead of using the big stick on the railroad executives through his attorney general has swung it in the form of an injunction against the shop crafts," Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, issued a statement whereby he said: "Oh, for one hour of normal thinking by our government officials."

An amendment to the constitution of the United States, aimed to "curb the despotic powers" which labor leaders saw wielded in Attorney General Daugherty's injunction, will be submitted for the approval of the executive council, American Federation of Labor, when it convenes here Saturday, members of the council disclosed today.

As tentatively drawn the amendment would prohibit enactment of any law or the making of any judicial determination which would deny the right of workers of this country "to organize for the betterment of their conditions; to deal collectively with their employers, or to withhold collectively their labor and patronage and induce others to do so."

Matthew Wolf, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, declared a nation-wide movement already was in progress among the rank and file of organized labor to launch demonstrative protests against the Daugherty injunction and to pave the way for anti-strike injunction legislation.

Such demonstrations, he asserted, would be conducted peacefully and without violence, being intended chiefly as a foundation for injection of the proposed amendment into politics and eventually into Congress.

In this connection Wolf declared that members of the C. W. M. of the American Federation of Labor unions, or even a 24-hour cessation of work as a protest against the Daugherty injunction were unimportant.

Girl at Whiskey Home

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Whitley of South Eighth street, Greenwood, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a nine pound daughter, Martha Jean, the first child in the family, this morning. ## STEEL PRODUCTION DEFINITELY ON UP GRADE, BUT SLOWLY Ingot Output at Rate of 50 to 55 Per Cent Capacity; Prices Show Continued Advancing Tendencies.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:
Steel production is now definitely on the up grade, but taking the industry as a whole the increase is at a slow pace. In the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys and in the Chicago district there have been numerous resumption of furnaces, but elsewhere in the country there is relatively little change.

There are scarcely any resurrections among the merchant furnaces, and thus the pig iron situation grows tighter, with prices still tending to advance even though the buying in the open market represents only an almost insignificant proportion of the total requirements of consumers. Pittsburgh has been able to find no foundry iron nearer than Buffalo, and has made some purchases at $64, Buffalo furnaces.

Production of steel ingots in the past two or three weeks has been at between 50 and 55 per cent of capacity, the high point of the year having been a rate of between 70 and 75 per cent, attained late in June. It is doubtful whether as high a rate will again be reached this year.

While the mining of coal is being resumed very rapidly, and reports show heavy loadings, it is one thing to load empty cars that have been lying idle for months and another thing to have these cars make regular round trip movements. The influence of car shortage will probably be felt keenly within a fortnight. Already the Connelville region is facing its limit in transportation so that the strike in the region, which nominally remains more or less in force, disappears as the actual factor in production.

Steel prices continue to show a decided advancing tendency. The slump in demand it was thought in some quarters might follow the ending of the coal strike is decidedly not in evidence. Mills are well sold up, some of the tonnage being at less than the new cost of production, and advantage is being taken of the pressure for deliveries to equalize against some of the low priced material.

Why They Parted

"I was down with pain in my right side which at times almost crazed me. Most all of the doctors said operation. But what I want to tell you is the pain disappeared with the first dose of your medicine and I never see my pain since. May's Wonderful Remedy has the right name—gas, sour stomach, and dyspepsia have left, too." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and always the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Advertisement.

FRIDAY EVENING, SEP. 8, 1934.
COAL CONTROL BILL AND POLITICS.
The soundness of the arguments presented by Senator David A. Reed in his address in opposition to the Cummings coal price control bill, cannot be questioned by any person taking the time or pains to analyze his statements.
He discussed the subject from several angles, legal and economic, and presented very cogent reasons for his conclusions. He declared the proposed law to be unconstitutional in that the effect of its operation will be to deprive coal producers and dealers of their property "without due process of law." This is a provision and safeguard of the fundamental law of the land which has never been set aside and which, Senator Reed points out, cannot be suspended by a declaration of an emergency by the President, as the bill would authorize the chief executive to do. Neither would such a declaration suspend the guarantees of the liberty of contracts, or give warrant to Congress to ignore the Constitution.
The second of Senator Reed's arguments is based upon no less secure ground than the constitutional objections he has raised.
"It seems to me very clear," the junior Senator from Pennsylvania said, "that it is the height of unwisedom for Congress now, in time of peace, to launch into a policy of price-fixing. Many of us are committed to the policy of less government in business and yet here, by this bill we go farther toward putting government into business than has ever before been done in time of peace. We go farther even than the war-time Lever act because in the pending bill we would abrogate contracts in substance, we would penalize them and make them unenforceable make it impossible to carry them out though they were contracts which were entered into before this bill was presented.
From the standpoint of the public the most serious objection to the bill is because it proposes to inflict upon another industry the same kind of government regulation which has placed a handicap upon railway transportation. It will take years to remove this handicap. Congress can legislate to control only interstate traffic, a law to control coal prices through the power of the interstate Commerce Commission to regulate the distribution of cars and deny their use to certain shippers, will leave interstate traffic without any form of control unless it be provided by laws to be enacted by the several state legislatures.
Anybody who is familiar with the wide diversity of state railroad regulations knows that state laws to control coal prices will be even more conflicting in their provisions. Without such laws neither the state nor the federal government could enforce any control of prices for coal sold at the mines in any state to consumers residing therein.
Senator Reed further pointed out that evasion of the proposed law in the sale of coal entering into interstate commerce would be easy and that its provisions would be unenforceable. If that is the case, and Senator Reed's legal knowledge should enable him to speak with confidence the enactment of the proposed law will merely mean that the courts would soon be clogged with litigation and the ultimate consumer would derive no benefit from all the agitation that has developed over the subject.
The action of the Senate in voting 46 to seven to send the bill to the conference committee indicates that the bill will probably pass. If this is done it will not become a law on its merits but because of the fear members of Congress have that a vote against it would impair their chances of re-election. The legal and economic unsoundness of the bill are apparent, to be given less consideration than the political effect of its passage. And that, like all previous legislation enacted as measures of expediency instead of necessity, will come back to plague those legislators who lack the courage to act as statesmen instead of as politicians.

With the registration yesterday

going Republican by about two to one the "reputation" of the present Administration and policies forecast by Democrats does not appear to have reputation to any considerable extent.

Fear of being burned by the voters at election, the members of Congress set to work yesterday willing to allow coal consumers to be searched by a scheme of price control which will cause a bigger and deeper scar than resulted from government control of the railroads.

There must have been too many bridge parties yesterday to permit the ladies qualify themselves to hold a winning hand at the rubber to be played November 7.

Robert Miner Killed.
Raymond McCluskey 18 years old, was killed Wednesday morning while at work in the Robert mines.

PEELING IT STRAIGHT.

Hypocrite Man Transcribed Said Dan McGinn to a foreign man who worked at the self-same bench.
"Let me tell you this," and in English
he said to the foreigner who said
"Don't talk to me of this hypocrisy, don't open your mouth to speak of your socialist or your labor lists,
don't mention the Holtschkees,
For I've had enough of this foreign stuff. I'm as sick as a man and of the speech here, and you telling me straight that this is the land for me."

"If you want to hear, just take that big bunch of his field of blue,
An' make the devil an' the lot of they sins for the time of the life of you."
"I'll hear no more," and he waved once more his wrench in a forceful way and the cunning crowd a long time stood for the "A I".
"I'm done with your faith, and your eyed lads, don't trouble your eye and ears."
Where I am at, or at night there'll be that candles around your bed.

"So tip your hat to a fine like that.
Thank God you're here where the roads are clear away from your kings and clowns."
I can't just say what I feel today,
for I'm not a talkin' man,
But first and last I am a Canadian first for all that's American.
So don't you speak of the Holtschkees,
It's sick of that stuff I am,
One God, one flag in the creed I bring,
I'm hoarse for Uncle Sam."

Health the Secret of Attraction. Women of today depend a good deal upon the modern modiste and a knowledge of the cosmetic art to make their attractive. Two often there exists beneath it all a suffering woman whose nervous laugh or forced smile covers a pang of agony caused by some female ailment. To such a woman Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring health and a happy relief from her suffering, that will make her far more attractive than costly gowns and cosmetics. Snyder, of a baby girl. Mrs. Snyder was formerly Miss Joan Morris. There is also a son in the family. The newcomer has been named Dorothy Louise.

Daily Fashion Hint

UNUSUAL FROCK
This little frock has chosen youthfully straight lines and emphasizes them with pleats that go from yoke to hem. The deep yoke belt and the interesting arm bands are of self-material woven in lattice effect. Monday's fall finishes the corded button at the belt.

A Prescription for High Blood Pressure

If you have dizzy spells, are nervous, have occasional hot flashes and can't sleep nights, you probably have high blood pressure and don't know it. Norma reduces high blood pressure to normal—often one bottle brings joyful assurance of permanent relief. Connelville Drug Co. and good drug-gists everywhere are dispensing it every day. Ask for Norma.—Advertisement—8-11.

Fair at Dawson Opens Next Week

Next Tuesday marks the opening of the seventh annual Fayette county fair at Dawson and indications point to a record attendance during all four days. Extra efforts are being put forth to make this year's fair far exceed those of previous years. There will be two feature days—Wednesday and Thursday—instead of the previous plan for a single big day. There will be 14 true acts every afternoon on a specially constructed platform in the field. All these wonderful acts are high class entertainment while the two additional Keith acts appear on Wednesday and Thursday. The Fayette county chapter of the Red Cross has notified Secretary Harry Cochran that it will again establish first aid facilities on the fair grounds. Red Cross nurses have been required on numerous occasions during recent fairs at Dawson and have always given incomparable service.

Looking for Bazarinas? If so, read our advertising columns and you will find them.

For immediate and permanent relief from eczema I prescribe Resinol

If you want to know more, try some of these things you talk about. But if you really want that itching stopped and your skin healed, I advise you to get a jar of Resinol Ointment, and a cake of Resinol Soap. We have been prescribing this treatment ever since you were a small boy, so we know what it will do. It is cooling, soothing, easy and economical to use, and relieves all over some eczema and similar affections. Ask your dealer for Resinol Soap and Ointment.

IN FALL CLOTHES

Extensive Use of Bead Girdles Feature of New Garments.

Get Attractively Combined With Bright Blue and Red in the More Practical Numbers.

Dropped waistlines and longer skirts are being held responsible for many fall features, not least of which is the extensive use of bead girdles. The last Paris arrivals show girdles in truly beaded style and in narrower development than we have known them in the past. Large bead balls are used in carrying out the mesh effects of many numbers, and these ornaments seem to be a typical note in advance showings.

The latest imports being displayed include many unusual beads, that join hexagon jet beads with the plain mesh effects to produce an irregular and very decorative trimming. One trimming that offers a novel feature is a beaded banding in scalloped effect that comes several inches deep. This banding is formed of beads are all-hand ornaments woven in lattice effect with smaller beads. One of the bead girdles that is at the moment receiving considerable attention in Paris, is a jet linked chain number of large dimensions.

Many tiny jet beads are so worked as to form a large link and many of these are joined in chain fashion to form the girdle. So real is the aspect of this model that one looks for an anchor chain instead of which deep jet tassels are used.

Instead of beaded one finds the extensive use of whole tassels, being made in many of the new belts and girdles. Jet is invariably combined with bright blue and red in the more practical numbers. Many of these belts have been created solely for use with dress effects of a tailored nature, while the most of beads are employed in making many more elaborate girdles, suitable for evening wear.

Crystal, jet and gold are all combined in one distinctive belt that ends in each effect with a long pendant drop that is fringed on the edge. The heavy proper is made of crystal strings that hold alluringly colored and square ornaments in proper place. A bizarre effect is then produced by the presence of gold beads which form the center of the black ornaments. One of the odd jet tassels introduced by these imports ends in myriad beads of many shapes that are sharp and bright enough to look like tiny darts.

LATE CREATION FOR KIDDIES

This is a frock of silk of dark colors, brightened with touches of brilliant colored embroidery. It is quite the smart and practical thing for the wee kiddie.

A Lingerie Ribbon.
For a serviceable lingerie ribbon in underwear, use this soft, black-and-embroidered ribbon. It has many advantages over ribbon: it does not run or mark, it is absolutely fast color, it goes through the machine lace mesh, requiring no extra sewing, and it does not have to be taken out and put in again when the garments are laundered.

No Cause for Alarm.
The Mistress—Really, Justice, you are wearing very pretty silk stockings. Maid—Don't be uneasy, madam; I got those at my last situation.—London Opinion.

PARTY DRESS FOR TINY GIRL

Pale Pink Taffeta With Overlay of White Georgette Offers Most Winsome Outfit.

The tiny girl must have her party frock. One charming little dress seen recently had a foundation of palest pink taffeta, with overlay of white georgette caught on the shoulders with knots of pink ribbon flowers. The overdress was slashed to form panels, and each panel was edged with the soft lace. Another party frock was of yellow organdy, much ruffled about the skirt and with blossoms ruffled trimmed. A self fabric sash was tied at the back in a flaring bow. Tiny girls, as well as boys, usually wear short socks that match their dresses or suits, or else white socks handed in color.

A HUSBAND'S RECIPE
"My wife and I used to quarrel all the time, but now we have the most peaceful home you ever saw."
"Indeed! How do you manage it?"
"I simply make my wife so mad she refuses to speak to me."

WHICH Do You WANT

Get More Eggs this Fall and Winter!

The one great mistake most poultry raisers make is in the idea that scratch feeds make eggs, and this accounts for their failure to get eggs in the winter and fall.

Scratch feeds do not make hens lay. Just so long as you make scratch feed the bulk of your hen's ration, you will fail to get eggs. Scratch feed is for the hen's bodily maintenance—to make her exercise, scratch—to satisfy her while on the roost, and not to make eggs. The feed that will make hens lay abundantly must be a soft feed, finely ground and correctly balanced—a feed composed of materials like hens pick up in the Spring, when their egg production is highest.

FUL-O-PEP DRY O MASH

The Great Oatmeal Poultry Feed

is that kind of a feed—compounded along nature's lines—made solely to make hens lay. It is a combination of proven egg making materials with several other valuable ingredients which come as near nature's egg-making food as it is possible for expert knowledge, science and experience to produce.

To get more eggs, Feed FUL-O-PEP DRY MASH—all your hens will eat. Keep it where they can get it all the time, and feed Ful-O-Pep Scratch Feed about an hour before they go to roost—then you'll get eggs and lots of them. We guarantee it.

Coker and Mill Town Fans Will Stage Rush for Seats At Ball Park Tomorrow

Independents and Scottdale Coming Together for Fourth Time.

FINAL GAME OF SEASON

"Come early and avoid the rush." That is a bit of advice Connellsville baseball fans will not overlook on Saturday afternoon when the Independents close their season with the Scottdale outfit at Fayette field. The Coker rooters feared a lesson the last time Scottdale was here as the fans from that town arrived fully an hour before the scheduled time for the clash and hurried to the ball park to get seats in the bleachers and grandstand. This left little else than standing space for local persons.

The Scottdale crowd will accompany its team again this week-end but Connellsville will be on hand to get their share of the seating space. The game is the first at Fayette field in several weeks, the Cokers playing at Johnstown on the last two Saturdays and being idle the week previous. In addition to the fact that the people here have been anxious for a home game the clash will be the final one of the year and with the last opportunity to see the Cokers in action, few lovers of the sport will miss the game.

There is an air of mystery about the two teams. It is known that there is no ban on any player and it is further known that both are breaking away from previous line-ups. Two men now on the Connellsville team that home fans have never seen are Bloom at first and Ware behind the bat. The latter had been engaged earlier in the year to catch but could not report.

Connellsville has already won two out of three games from Scottdale and is more than determined to win the final one. Rivalry between the teams has been bordered on ill feeling and now that a contest, with the ranks of either team open for the admission of any player, has been arranged, fans could not be kept away from the contest.

New York and Pittsburgh retained their relative standings yesterday, both teams winning, the former defeating Philadelphia 11-6 and the latter winning from the Cubs, 6-0. The "Pirate" victory was Wilbur Cooper's 20th win of the season.

Next week Robert Schenck, student manager of the High School football team, and his force of assistants will transform the Fayette field diamond into a gridiron. Sidelines will be planted and goal posts erected.

THREE SQUADS REPORT FOR WORKOUT ON HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL TEAM

Signal practice, blocking, breaking through the line and catching punts, the latter by backfield men, featured the workout of the Connellsville High School football team yesterday afternoon. About three teams reported for duty and Coach Wine did believe he has the makings of a strong eleven. One man, new this season but a letter man last year, reported yesterday afternoon. He is "Mickey" McCormick. Howard is out for his old place in the backfield. With the weight he added during the past year he will be a hard man to beat out of a place but there is more competition for a job in that division of the team than in the past five years. Gillo is looking up. Krenak shows the same snap he uncovered towards the end of last year. Whipple is in the game to give his all. Joe May is another determined candidate and there are others. Some of last year's letter men have not yet reported. That fact is the only discouraging damper on the team. Just four of the 18 who earned their letter last year have reported so far. The new material looks fine but with a little more experienced matter on which to build a scoring machine, results would be achieved more quickly.

No scrummage has been held thus far. Coach Wine is anxious to work his men on the tackling dummy first and this machine has not yet arrived. The opening game is on Saturday, September 16, with Youngwood High School.

OLD-TIMER PLAYS BASEBALL

Mr. Sue Punge, Age Forty-Six, Father of Eleven Children, Has Been in Game Twenty-Five Years.

For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Sue Punge, age forty-six years, has been playing baseball with the Island team.

Four times he has gone abroad with championship crews, twice to tour the mainland and twice to the Orient. He is a regular centerfielder for the Chinese team, champions of the Honolulu Baseball league last season, and withal he is the father of 11 children. Last year he batted 300 and his fielding placed him third at center field in a circuit of eight teams. During his baseball career he has played on 25 championship teams.

Augusta Gots Spencer, has been turned over to the Augusta, South Atlantic association club, by the Delaware Association.

BIG BONERS PULLED IN BASEBALL GAMES

Common Fault at Times to Forget Number of Men Out.

"Doc" Gessler, a Mighty Good Ball Player, College Graduate, Etc., Pulled an Ivory Classic Playing With Cubs.

Forgetting the number of men that are out is a common fault in baseball. Any number of ludicrous situations have been created because some player thought two were out instead of one.

In the majors and minors every year a score or more of "boners" are pulled because the player making the play lost track of the outs.

In a game at New York a number of years ago both teams and the umpire became confused as to the number of outs.

The two clubs proceeded to change sides when only two men were out, and only the wild shouts of the official scorer that only two men had been retired cleared up the situation.

However, the prize play featuring the failure to keep track of the outs goes to "Doc" Gessler who was a mighty good ball player. Gessler played in both American and National leagues. He was a college graduate and a mighty bright chap, but it's just as easy for a collegian to pull a "boner" as a sandlotter, if he forgets how many men are out.

Gessler was playing with the Cubs when he pulled his classic in ivory. It was the first of the ninth, the bases were filled, one out and the score mighty close.

Gessler evidently thought two men were out, for when he pitched a remarkable catch of a hard-hit fly ball, he believed the side had been retired and started for the clubhouse at top speed.

Before his teammates could make him realize that only two were out all three runners had scored.

Frank Henry of Mobile and George Wynn of Nashville, star southpaws, have met twice this season. In each case it was a desperate 1 to 0 battle with Henry on the winning end and on both occasions.

KNOCK COVER OFF BALL

In the earlier days of baseball, before the adjective foundry had been so hard at work as it has in recent years, and before there were young men who sat down and curled their brains devising baseball phrases, the popular way of saying that a team could bat was to an audience that it "knocked the cover off the ball." A thirty-third degree bug of the Order of Bugs wants to know if such a thing ever happened in a regular big league game. It did. Deleahy once knocked the cover off a ball and the cover was fielded to first by the pitcher while the ball, unwinding yarn at every jump, was pounced upon by an outfielder. Everybody got tangled up before the play was adjusted.

REFUSED TO JOIN CLUB

Hotel Statler at Detroit was having the ceiling of its lobby painted.

Decorators, unaiding paint cans cans of pain, canvas and ladders were being used.

All this is not sufficiently extraordinary to make it worth even a hotel note. There wasn't an item of news in the whole act until Ty Cobb entered the hotel. The object was the desk. Cobb took one look and saw nothing but ladders. To advance a single step he would have to pass under one of them. The Tygers had won eight straight games.

Cobb did not turn around and walk out. He retraced his steps by backing out, facing front and only after he had reached the sidewalk.

CLEVER AS THIRD BASEMAN

Apparently Everybody Agrees That Howard Shanks Belongs to Outfield, Except Manager.

Howard Shanks, third baseman for the Washington team, belongs in the outfield. Everybody apparently is agreed upon that, except the few that have the matter in hand. However, Shanks last year led all third basemen in the league when he accepted 671 chances at third in 154 games. This total gave him an average of 3.10 per game. And he set a new record for third basemen by starting 27 double plays.

Diamond Squibs

Wichita Falls seems able to win no matter what happens.

Every time the umpire calls "Strike" it just ruins the game for everybody.

The only way to get a thrill out of a home run nowade is to knock two of them in one inning.

Wade Lester, to marry with the Baltimore Orioles, is a man going like a million dollars since joining the Augusta team.

Howard N. Fitzgerald, center fielder for the Amarillo club of the West Texas league, has been sold to the Chicago Cubs.

Los Angeles, run of 14 straight victories set a new record for the Coast league, which has stood at 12, made by Oakland in 1912.

The Molina club released Mar Zeller and Terre Flauto took him on and sent him in against his former mates. He beat them nicely.

Seattle traded Ned Murphy to Sacramento, is a lively baseman. Murphy was proved at not being made manager of the Seattle team.

The Minneapolis ownership has transferred Pitcher Leo Mangum to the St. Joseph team. He was a world beater with St. Joe last year.

Pittsburgh A lot was set down for ten days by President McCarthy for taking a pole at Umpire Ted McGraw, and fined $100 besides.

A scout for the St. Louis Browns has signed up a catcher who goes by the name of Itch Murphy—probably to make Pat Collins feel at home.

Good though he may be, the Buffalo club thinks it made a deal to its advantage in the transfer of Catcher Ben Bengough to the New York Yankees.

Sport Woodbridge, a nineteen-year-old pitcher with the Lubbock team of the West Texas league, has been bought by the Chicago Cubs for a trial.

Acquisition of Dallas of Don Rader from Beaumont is taken by some of the sharps to indicate that Bobby Stow has run his race in the Texas league.

The Japanese have taken up American baseball and have become quite adept at it but they never can be considered real fans until they kill a few umpires.

Concordia college of St. Louis has furnished another major league graduate. He is a catcher Norman Balke, who has been taken off by the Brooklyn club for trial.

Max Carey, like Tyms Raymond Cobb is nearing the age when most players are about ready to retire as major leaguers but the Pirates outfielder is an exception.

Chick Gagnon went by Detroit to Rochester got off to such a good start

DIXIE BOYS WIN GOLD CUP IN ENGLAND'S ROYAL SHOW

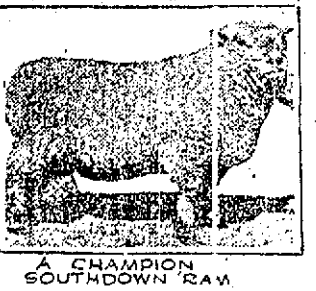

GOLD CUP WORLD CHAMPIONS

London, England.—Even American boys lift English cups. The three young men seated in the tractor are world champions. They have just captured the championship gold cup for judging livestock by boys teams at the most aristocratic of all livestock exhibits, the Royal English show at Cambridge, near London. Last fall at Atlanta, Ga., this team, representing Montgomery county, Md., defeated teams from seventeen other states, thus winning the right to represent the United States at the Royal Show, where they upheld the prestige of their native land in splendid form. According to Guy H. Hall, director of the National Institute of Progressive Farming, their victory is one of the most signal triumphs in the annals of American boyhood when one considers that England is the original home of purebred cattle and sheep.

The young Americans were given a trip through England, Scotland and the battlefields of Europe. The photographer caught them together as they were enjoying themselves at the International tractor exhibit, an adjunct of the Royal Show, as guests of F. J. Woodward, London manager of the J. I. Case Tractor Company of Racine, Wis. From left to right they are George M. Warrillow, Warren W. Rice and Joe Clackson. The main standing in their escort, W. C. Snary, county agent of Montgomery county.

These young Marylanders, while they have attained to unusual efficiency not only in matters pertaining to livestock but in all that has to do with modern farming, are said to be typical of thousands of farm boys throughout the country. Their schooling, which is severely practical, includes the application of fertilizers, the use of silos, and a mechanical knowledge increasingly necessary on farms where tractors and other labor-saving and time-saving devices are becoming more than ever essential.

The Maryland boys are expected to defend their title at the great International Livestock Exposition at Chicago next fall, where they will meet not only a British team but teams from Brazil, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, South Africa and perhaps other parts of the world.

MILITARY HERO BECOMES TRAMP

Misfortune Drops Him From Riches to Poverty.

WON FORTUNE IN HORSE RACE

From Buck Private in British Army He Rose to Rank of Captain in Crack Cavalry Regiment—If He Hadn't Picked the Winner in the Calcutta Sweepstakes He Might Now Be Well-Pensioned Old Soldier With Remunerative Position.

From military honors and riches to poverty and a park bench for a bed is the strange transition in the fortunes of Captain Henry Donald Penn of London.

Ordinarily Penn would have been accounted among the world's lucky ones. From a buck private in the army he rose to the rank of captain, and in addition to that won even a greater distinction—that of drawing the winning horse in the Calcutta sweepstakes. That brought him a fortune of $150,000. But, today Penn sleeps on a hard, uncomfortable park bench on Thames embankment, down and out. He is penniless and consequently is friendless.

Penn's story is a sad one. Perhaps his unluckiest moment was when he won the Calcutta sweepstakes. But for that he might now be a well-pensioned old soldier having a position of trust with some big firm and living, if not in luxury, in plenty and comfort.

Penn's Career.

Tabulated briefly, Penn's life is as follows:
1906—Private in the British army.
1908—Won $150,000 in the Calcutta sweepstakes.
1910—Laying the life of a country squire in Surrey.
1914—Rejoined the army and was promoted to a captaincy.

1922—Sleeping, penniless and friendless, on Thames embankment.
Penn's career in the army was distinguished. As a trooper in the Twenty-first lancers he rode in the famous charge against the Arabs at Omdurman and was awarded the medal of the Distinguished Service order for bravery in the face of the enemy fire.

In 1909, he bought a ticket from a barrack-room comrade for the Calcutta sweepstakes. He drew King Edward's horse Minor, and Penn won the $150,000 prize. He quickly purchased his discharge from the army and bought a magnificent country estate in Surrey near the ancient town of Dorking, in one of the most picturesque bits of old England. There he lived the typical life of an English country gentleman. He went to church on Sunday and sat in the family pew. On week-days, like Horrocks of old, he rode to the hounds and looked after the tilling of his fields. The best people of the countryside joined him in the chase. His money was ample for a time, but eventually some of his speculations went bad and he had to give up his country place and come to London. Here he purchased a tobacco shop and settled down to the life of a small tradesman.

Penn tried to recoup, but his financial manipulations went from bad to worse. At the beginning of 1914 he found himself a poor man once again.

The war broke out and Penn rejoined his old regiment as a sergeant. His previous military training enabled him to get a commission and he rose rapidly to the rank of captain. The war ended and Penn was de-

WOMEN BALK AT DECREE

Fair Sex of Turkey Combat Move to Make Their Garb Uniform.

Some optimistic and determined Turks are attempting to persuade the women of the land to adopt a standard form of dress. Optimistic, because Turkish women seem more inclined to wear a uniform than would their sisters of London. Paris and New York and determined because the committee de la mode is thinking of cutting upon the police for help in carrying out its plans.

"Where are the women who would consent to have imposed upon them an antique and strange costume found today only in museums?" is one of the questions hurled at the reformers. "Where is the woman who would recommend such a costume to another?" The committee declares its project will be "put over."

At Last.

"George, dear, I've something I want to talk to you about."
"I'm glad of that, darling. As a rule you want to talk to me about something you haven't got."—Windsor Magazine.

"Would you marry a man in order to reform him?"
"No," replied Miss Guyenne. "If I were to marry I'd want to be the head of a household and not of a reform school."

Competition.

"I see they're going to get after the home brewers."
"Don't you believe it. That's just bootlegger propaganda."—New York Sun.

He—Be mine, darling. You are the lamp that alone can light my existence."
She—Yes, dear, but papa doesn't think you are a good match for me.

Change Needed.

Extravagant Son—Of course I keep a running account at my tailor's.
Irate Father—Running account? He tells me it has been standing for eighteen months.

No Long Distance Appeals.

"Wife going to the seashore this summer?"
"No, decided to stay at home where the money supply is close at hand."

The End of the Honeymoon.

"When does the honeymoon end?"
"The first time the bride asks for something and the husband replies that he can't afford it."

The Groom.

Here goes the bride,
Into the room,
That shivering moral
Is the groom.

The Right Instinct.

"Come, Dorothy," said her father impatiently, "throw your doll on the bed and hurry or we shall be late."
"Daddy, how can you?" reproved the child. "I isn't that kind of a nuisance?"

It Was Really Heavy.

Young Wife—I made this cake all by myself, darling.
Young Husband—Well done, love! But—er—who helped to lift it out of the oven?

SOME SMILES

A PROLONGED COURTSHIP

The old man regarded his remaining unmarried daughter critically. "Let me see, Alice," he reflected. "Young Stuytlin has been calling on you regularly for six or eight months, hasn't he?"
"Yes, father," answered Alice.
"Well," continued her parent, "if he asks you to marry him when he comes tonight, tell him to get up. Understand?"
"Yes, dad," giggled Alice. "But suppose he doesn't ask me to marry him?"
"If he," replied her father. "In that case just tell him I want to see him."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Bad Advertising.

"Can't I tell you some of these pork and beans goods?"
"What brand?"
"The Sweepstakes."
"No, indeed. I saw an advertisement giving a picture of a fellow who had taken one bite of those and was wearing a grin that was positively idiotic. I don't want to take any chances on looking that way."—Retail Ledger, Philadelphia.

Why the Crowd Laughed.

Lecturer (in loud voice): "I venture to say to this crowd of people that there isn't a man in this audience tonight who has ever done anything to prevent the destruction of our vast forests!"

As he paused for breath a little man in the back row rose timidly: "Yes, I have: I killed a couple of woodpeckers once."

He Knows.

"My husband is merely a manufacturer of waste baskets," sighed the woman with aspirations. "It seems such a prosy occupation."
"On the contrary there is really much poetry in waste baskets," replied the unappreciated beau.

That Was All.

Roberts—Jugs did not stay long when he called on you at the office.
Robinson—No; he wanted to borrow $5, and went away as soon as he got it.
"I see; just a case of touch and go."—London Tit-Bits.

More Valuable Than Diamonds.

"What are you doing with that lump of coal?"
"I am taking it to my jeweler's to have it made over into an engagement ring."

Sweet Perfection.

"I have a perfect wife," said Lee; "Her cooking's not a crime, and when she makes a date with me she's always there on time."

The Epilogue.

"Would you mind turning off that electric fan, waiter?"
"Yes, sir. Too much draft, sir?"
"It isn't that, but I don't want the aroma of this camerabert I'm eating to be blown away."

America Leads in Home Comforts

THE average American home has more comforts and conveniences than the places of Europe. Home for home, the American household has a well-kept look, an atmosphere of prosperity and contentment you cannot find in the homes of any other country in the world. In foreign lands, the modernized dwelling, as we know it, is found only in limited numbers and then only in the large cities.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find pianos, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless appliances that go far to make life easier, happier and more worth while.

You may not realize it, but America's high standard of home life is due largely to advertising. For the development of advertising is distinctively American. It has taken its place as a leading force in bringing together the interests and wants of a great, united people. And a large share of the credit for this development is due the newspapers.

Stop and think how many of the appliances you use, the foods you eat, the clothes you wear, and other articles entering into your every-day life, were popularized by newspaper advertising.

Then you will realize what a vital part advertising has played and is playing in your daily life.

It was easy enough to shove through the weeds and to enter the new canal. Soon it broadened, winding about among the capricious cypress trees. Now it came upon a widening that looked like a millpond, except that in the midst of it stood an island of tall cane. It was an attractive sight, and he seemed paddling to look. Slowly he drifted toward the island's shore. He took hold of a cane root and pulled the cane of the canoe hard into the bank. Then he got out, parting the sticks and stepping onto a shadow as deep as night. But now through this settling hallway he could see sunlight beyond, and knew that he was about to come into an open space. And out late it he looked, with a start; for there a few feet from the edge of the fringe of cane, stood a small house made of minute shells cemented—porcelain. Its roof was of thatch, the long rushes gathered from the swamp; and about the door was a cypress vine, the red blooms dazzling in the sun. And then a boned cane Drace held was crushed in his hand, for through

Through the Door and Out Beneath the Vine came the Barbic Rose-Maid, Nadine La Vitte.

CHAPTER VII

She did not take fright when she saw him. She was startled, but did not run into the house; she stood gazed, her marvelous eyes in wide stare. Slowly he came forward, gazing, his hat in his hand. He dropped the hat, stooped, caught it up and now stood before her.

If she were agitated, he could not discover it. She stood where the red blooms brushed her brow. He held forth his hand, and slowly she shook her head.

"Gentle, how foolish to come! If you do not go now, in a short time you will die. My father! He will shoot you. I should like it not to see you dead, you are so brave. My father, he will think you come for him."

"But I will tell him that I did not."

He moved nearer, but with her hand raised, palm toward him, she motioned him away.

"You do not know what you talk. Nothing could you tell him, for the gun fire, and you will be no more. Please go away now."

"Oh, it is because you want to get rid of me."

"No, no, no. It is not that. I like you much. You are so brave—and handsome. It is because I fear for you. My father would be angry to have me talk with a northern man. Go now, and for my sake, come no more."

"Mr. Boyce," said Drace then, "is not a northern man?"

She shot a sudden startled look at him. "Mr. Boyce—but he is my father's friend. My father expects me to marry Mr. Boyce. And if my father should come back and find me here talking with you, he would—Please, Mr. Drace, go at once, before it is too late. See, the sun is almost set. The stars come soon, and then through the cane he comes. Oh, won't you please be kind to me and go at once?"

"Kind to me? God, bless you, I would like to see you."

"Oh, you make love soon! But won't you please go now! Quick, I hear something."

"You hear my heart. Let me stay ten minutes, and then I go."

"Ah, but why would you give me ten minutes of fear?"

So now that her anxiety was real, and his heart smote him for cruelty to this dashing creature whose father he would marry with a rope brought from the North.

"Yes, I will go. I wanted to tell you something, but my regret at going is so deep that I forget what it was. But I must come again when the sun is not so low. No, tell me please, when that shall be?"

"Never would a man before talk like this to me. . . But if you must come when I beg you no, let it be next Thursday. My father then will be in the hills to buy cattle."

"This is Friday, and that will be a week, lacking one day. You have set tomorrow for my return."

"If you come before, you will not find me. And now it is the good-by."

She drew back quickly through the door, and down into the fringe of tall cane he went, parting his way to the canoe that lay nosing the mossy bank.

Only now that she was gone and night had come did he remember—remember that this girl who had bewitched the senses of a man with him was the daughter of his sworn enemy, Stepho la Vitte.

A voice called him as he was cursing himself for a traitor to his father's memory. On a point of land he saw three men standing. One of them beckoned him, and he turned in toward them. One of them spoke:

"Would you be kind to get us across? The night he comes, and we would not be lost in the swamp. We will get to the river. Would you, please?"

"Yes, but I don't know that my canoe will hold four. We may get a ducking."

He pulled alongside and steered the canoe while they got in. Now he paddled carefully. The man who had talked, and whom the other two addressed as Tenez, requested to be set on a bushy shore where the water was so shallow that the canoe was almost stuck in the ooze. With his paddle Drace propped his craft steady, for them to get out. Tenez got out—and with the quickness of a cat snatched a rope from beneath his coat and threw a noose about Drace's arms. Then the two men in the boat threw themselves upon him. There was a hard struggle in the canoe and then out into the water, but they brought him ashore, wound about with the rope. Now they made haste to tie him securely. The canoe was dragged ashore; Drace stretched out in it, and now they took it on their shoulders and hastened through the tangled underbrush. He had fought hard, but had not cried out. But as he was carried along, he swore bitterly at himself for not looking at first with suspicion on the faces who now had him in their power.

"Ah, you would stand about and spy," said Tenez. "But you stand about no more. The carpenter says, 'You brave?' and you say, 'Yes, I am brave.' Then they say, 'You find old Stepho.' And you go to find him. He is not at home. But his men, they come just in time."

"You are liar. I was—"

"Ah, you come with the joke. Tomorrow, we will laugh. Will you? No, you will not laugh."

Drace lay quietly tugging at the ropes that bound him. If he could spring out free, what a scuffling he would make of them! They stopped, entering some sort of doorway, and rested the canoe on the ground. Tenez lighted a candle, and Drace saw that he was in an old ruin, almost ready to fall. They rolled him out on the floor, face down, and beneath his arms they passed the paddle of the canoe, so that he could not turn over. Then the others went out, leaving Tenez, holding the candle.

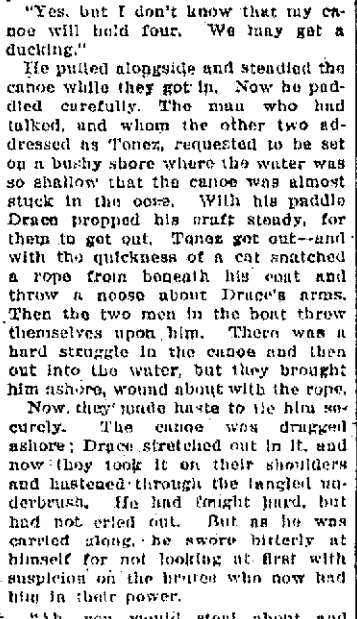

"Does the kind gentleman know why they come?" This he said to get the dry fumes and the dead back. For what? To make the fire. It is not cold, not! But they will make the fire of the cane, and when the morning comes, there will be the ashes of the kind gentleman; and the people they will say: 'Ah, he lie down to sleep, and burn up.'"

Drace heard them piling their murderous fire into a corner. Again he appealed to them, tried threats, told them that his friends would hang them; but they laughed, Tenez bending over him with the candle.

"In a few minutes I light the blaze and take the candle away. . . You talk of Stepho's daughter. Remember she may love me soon, too."

"You Spanish devil!"

time to conserve the birds. Unless the market for elk teeth is curved before the late it will mean the extermination of our elk, the most magnificent of all deer.

Indian braves decorated themselves with necklaces made of claws taken from the most ferocious animal in America, the grizzly bear. Only the squaws wore elk teeth decorations, and they used only those from the animals killed for food and clothing. Now the white men are following the fashion of the squaws, but are paying a price that tempts the lowest characters to slaughter and waste the elk for these worthless trinkets. A fuller understanding of the history and significance of the custom of wearing elk teeth should have an influence in deprecating the market for them and thus removing the incentive for this wanton destruction of our noblest and most valuable game animal.

Fashion Leads to Illegal Killing Which Threatens Destruction of Noble Animals.

Thousands of magnificent bull elk have been killed in the Yellowstone park region by hunters who illegally shoot them down at all seasons, more for the two teeth that may be obtained from each and sold at a high price to be worn as ornaments. The fashion of wearing these bits of bone as watch chains, on links, stickpins, and buttons has been steadily growing as the once rare heads of elk become and are threatened with extinction, according to the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture.

A few years ago the wearing of necklaces for hat bands and the destruction of one of our most beautiful birds, but through aroused public sentiment a bill was called in Even Baltic State's Beggars Have Come Linguists.

There have been so many delegations of French officials and business men in Riga this summer that the French language is becoming popular, adding another tongue to the three others—Latvian, Russian and German—already recognized in the new Baltic state.

Because of the mixed population of the country, Latvian money has the wording in Latvian, Russian and German. The telephone "talk" girls all speak these languages and some of them also English, French and Estonian. Many of the Latvian government officials speak English and French. At the post office the public notices are in the three official languages. High school teachers nearly all speak five or six languages, and some of them use very good English.

Floating Islands.

Natural floating islands sometimes are seen in the Mississippi and other rivers, and in lakes, occasionally being of sufficient size to serve as pastures. They have been found in river banks which have been torn away and carried down stream by a powerful current, and sometimes trees remain growing on these islands. # Furnace Coke Goes Up $1 While Foundry Goes Down 50c., Against Week Ago

Trade Talks Strike But Transportation Is the Dominant Factor.

CARS SLOW TO GET BACK

After Leaving Mines or Ovens for Consuming Plants; Furnaces Resuming Have Coke Supply of Their Own; Prices Too High for Others.

Special to The Weekly Courier
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 8.—Furnace coke is a dollar a ton higher and foundry coke 50 cents lower, than a week ago. Open market offerings are increased somewhat, but not by a great deal. Demand is relatively light.

The trade at large is still talking strike and strike prospects, but the keen observers have come to the conclusion in the past few days that transportation is going to be the dominant factor in making the market condition, not the strike. Those observers admit that the strike is still on, in the sense that there remain a great many strikers, also in the sense that many of those who are strikers are very strong in their views on the subject. They think they have won the strike and that all that is left is for the operators to sign up. When, however, the limit of employment is closely approached or actually reached, on account of car supplies becoming a limiting factor, the more strikers there are the weaker is their cause, for there is not room to put many of them back into employment. There being so many strikers, left outside yet with a very fair production occurring, it is evident that the number of men brought into the region is not fully realized.

This particular point about car shortage is that first loadings of cars that have been around for a long time are no criteria of the condition of service, these cars can perform. The Connelville region is now shipping coke quite heavily, but has been doing so for some time. There are few cars that have made the round trip. The power with the Connelville region is such that the cars are the point of weakness. It is easy to load cars the first time, but another matter entirely to keep the cars making their round trips time after time. To get the cars back for a second loading is much harder than to place them the first time.

It is known that many coke cars normally used only in hauling coke have been pressed into coal service, whereby they would not be available for hauling coke should the region suddenly become able to operate a greatly increased number of ovens.

As to the strike itself, men are drifting back to work from day to day, but only in small numbers. The strikers have no thought but that the operators could give them employment if the operators would simply get over their obstinacy in refusing to sign a scale. The rich scale is satisfactory but the strikers want an agreement, even including the check off.

The case related in last report of the Shamango Furnace Company picking up various odd lots of furnace coke in the open market and resuming operations at one blast furnace has not been duplicated elsewhere. Furnaces that use purchased coke are not in general resuming. There are various resumption of blast furnaces in the Valley and elsewhere, but they involve furnaces that have coke works of their own, either as a by-product. The two objections of furnacemen to buying coke for resuming operations are that the price is too high and that there is not enough coke to be had. It might be argued that the present pig iron market something like $12 a ton, higher or lower than market of last March, would much more than absorb the increase in the market price of coke. The rejoinder to this argument is that when the average merchant furnace resumes its first duty, will be to fill the old and low priced orders it now has on books. If a furnace could start with a clean slate it would be a different matter.

The more common asking price for furnace coke today is $11.50, but in a pinch some might be picked up at $11. While in an emergency a buyer may sometimes be secured at $12, so that the market is best quotable at the full range, which is $1.00 higher than the $11 to $11.50 range quoted a week ago, which was based on some very fair sized transaction not all for spot shipment. Foundry coke of very fair grade is offered at $12.50, but better grades command $13. In general there is a decidedly better ton of quality in foundry coke than there was a month or two ago. The market for spot and prompt shipment is now quotable as follows:

Furnace coke $11.00 to $12.00
Foundry coke $12.50 to $13.00

The pig iron market has continued to jump. On small lot sales the only kind occurring nowadays Bessemer is at $34, Valley. There is no Valley foundry iron at all stocks being sold out while there is no production. The market for foundry iron is equivalent to that of Bessemer, consumers have been buying Buffalo iron, the best iron to be had at the Buffalo market of $34. Furnace Allowance for freight this makes approximately the same price delivered Pittsburgh as would Valley iron at $35.50. Furnace. Bessemer iron continues to be quotable around $30. Valley. Bessemer purchases at lower prices could not be duplicated. There are no offerings at $30 and more still might have to be paid. The market is quotable as follows on a Valley basis:

Bessemer $11.00
Foundry $12.50
Valley $13.00

Connelville steam coal has been offered in the week, being now quotable at $6.00 to $6.25. Regular Pittsburgh district coke has come into the open market again as the mines have signed the scale and are resuming operations.

Steam coal is quotable at $6.00 to $6.25 and Youngbloods gas at $6.75 to $7.00.

Monthly averages for spot and prompt coke have been as follows:

Furnace & Foundry
January $11.00
February $11.00
March $11.00
April $11.00
May $11.00
June $11.00
July $11.00
August $11.00

Monthly averages of the pig iron market Valley basis have been as follows:

January $34.00
February $34.00
March $34.00
April $34.00
May $34.00
June $34.00
July $34.00
August $34.00

To Trust By-Product Plant Part of the improvement to be made by the American Smelting & Refining Company in the development of its coal property at Bessemer, Connellsville, will be the erection of a by-product plant of a capacity of 20,000 tons per month.

AGASSHOES One has a wide choice of shoes

From Fashion's Notebook

Flying—

A flying panel—reverse side forced in bright peach colored silk—distinguishes a new frock in South faced Canton. Its blouse is low as so many blouses are this fall and it presents a real beautiful tout ensemble. An reasonably priced at $45.00.

Buddha—

The great god Buddha comes to life again in little buttons at shoulder and cuff of a dress in black satin. Canton True to the Mode. It features something startlingly unusual by way of a drape and is smooth and youthful as to line. The reasonable price tag is $40.75.

Russian—

Here is a suit to prove that there is a very definite Russian trend in Fashion. It comes in Tulle, a soft, tulle, brown and its blouse is uncommonly low—which is just as the Russians would have it. Rich fur beautiful silk collar, coat hem and cuffs $129.75.

Draped—

A flowing drape from shoulder to girdle—and a panel from girdle to hem bring modernity to this frock in navy. Canton City is irregular but it gives you further assurance that it is in the very height of style. One of the new head ornaments embellishes its side $29.75.

Sparrow—

There are two points in favor of this smart creation from Peggy Paig. It comes in Sparrow, a new shade of brown. And it is a new silk material.

True Peggy to old novel sleeves and a wide embroidery of girdle in a way to win any sales heart.

It something a little bit different for but $59.50. Appa Section—Second Floor

Pointers—

A clever tailored dress in Pointers is an interesting choice for its deeply pointed collar. All the more so when it trims this collar with bright colored braid—and carries out the same motif around its unusual cuffs. Reasonable for some charming miss and $39.75.

Vogue—

Vogue is a new and very beautiful Autumn color—a copper tint—appearing in a sumptuous Fall coat.

The coat is trimmed in smooth, luxurious beaver which serves to increase the charm of its color a hundred fold.

It emphasizes a smart, comfortable wrap effect, very good this season, in silk lined and $169.50.

The Curtains New For Fall

New hangings are the order of the day—or rather of the season—when one looks around the house and decides that the curtains do look rather shabby.

You'll be surprised how many kinds we have—all new—and so crisp and fresh that you'll readily agree they're the very things you're seeking for your windows.

North Pittsburg Street

Bungalow Net Curtains feature the new wide mesh so much in favor with clever interior decorators. Casement Cloth binds itself to filmy effects, lovely as old lace. Lower Lace Curtains are very closely figured with a long silken fringe.

And all of our curtains wash well—as Coke Region curtains must.

Lower Lace Curtains with a grace and charm peculiarly their own, are priced per panel $8.00.

High Point Curtains and curtains in beautiful net are here too at various prices.

Do You Feel Like Going to Work?

Go to your work with a spring in your step and a song in your heart. Get rid of that morning yawn. You feel "headachy," grumpy and irritable because your liver or stomach is out of order.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS will rouse your liver, cleanse and invigorate your stomach and put your whole digestive system in tune again.

Take one or two CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS tonight. You'll get up in the morning with an appetite for breakfast and the feeling that you are going to do a real day's work.
